My Super Hero World

By day, Batman is Bruce Wayne, millionaire CEO of Wayne Industries, and Batgirl is Barbara Gordon, a librarian. Superman is Clark Kent, a mild-mannered reporter at the Daily Planet. Picture yourself as a super hero. What is your alter ego? What are your superpowers?

My alter ego name:

My alter ego job:

My super hero name:

Do I have a sidekick? YES NO
If so, here's what my sidekick is like:

My weakness:

My arch enemy:

Here is what happened once when I totally saved the day:

GOTHAM CITY EGG BREAD

Fluffy and light with a hint of vanilla, this French toast doesn’t need the sugar—but it looks awesome.

DIFFICULTY LEVEL:
1 star

INGREDIENTS
- 2 thick slices challah bread
- ¼ cup milk
- 1 large egg
- 1 drop of vanilla extract
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 tablespoon confectioners’ sugar

HOW TO MAKE IT

1. In a bowl, soak the sliced challah in milk, one slice at a time.
2. Next, crack and beat the egg into a second bowl. Dip each slice of milky bread into the egg mixture.
3. Heat butter in a frying pan using low-to-medium heat and brown the bread on both sides, then remove the French toast from the heat.
4. Using the Batman symbol stencil from the back of the book, decorate each slice with confectioners’ sugar. (Place stencil on the toast and sprinkle sugar over it then remove the stencil). Orange slices make a nice garnish.
